He Knew Some

Edmund had just begun to attend the public school, and had found a new friend, a child of whom Edmund's mother had never heard.

"Who is this little 'Walter'?" she asked.

"Yes, 'Walter' is 'Walter'!" replied Edmund enthusiastically.

"Does he say any naughty words?" pursued his mother.

"No replied Edmund, with emphasis, "and I'm not going to teach him any!"

Ottawa Girl's Message of Hope

TELLS TIRED WOMEN OF DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

Miss Logan Tells How They Relieved Her of Pains and Aches So Many Run-down Women Know.

Ottawa, Ont.—(Special)—"I am glad to say I have found Dodd's Kidney Pills have done for me what I have longed for. So says Miss Gladys E. M. Logan, 264 Queen street, this city. I suffered from drowsiness and sharp pains across my back. My sleep was broken and unrefreshing. I had headaches and was subject to neuralgia and rheumatism. I was depressed and low spirited, and troubled with palpitation of the heart."

"I was always tired and nervous and very sensitive and there were hot flashes under my eyes."

"For two years I was in this worn-out condition, often having to lay off for a day or two. I was attended by doctors and wasted money on useless medicines, but I only found relief when I used Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Miss Logan's statement is a message of hope to thousands of women in Canada. They are suffering just as she suffered. She wants them to know they can find relief in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Farm Products in B. C.

While the total value of farm products of British Columbia in 1911 was over $30,000,000 the Province bought from the rest of Canada $20,000,000 worth of the same class of goods, including $2,400,000 worth of flour, and from other countries similar goods to the value of $5,000,000. These purchases from outside included $5,000,000 worth of live stock, $4,500,000 of dairy products, $2,600,000 of meat products, $800,000 of fruit and $1,400,000 of eggs. All of which goes to show that there is a good home market for British Columbia farm products.—Vancouver News-Advertiser.

String Made From Paper

So scarce have supplies of ordinary string and twine become that efforts have been made to find an effective substitute, and an engineering firm, after a number of experiments, has started the manufacture of string made from paper.

In appearance the new string which is suitable for the tying of parcels of fair size, is exactly similar to the genuine article, and it is difficult to detect the difference. Only one thick-yarn size so far has been produced, but further varieties will no doubt be manufactured.

THE ACUTE PAIN FROM NEURALGIA

Permanently 'Cured Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

A clever medical writer has said that "Neuralgia is a cry from the nerve for red blood." In other words, neuralgia is not a disease—it is only a symptom, but a very painful one. Neuralgia is the suffering that your blood is weak, watery and impure, and that your nerves are literally starving. Had blood is the one cause—rich, red blood the only cure. This gives you the real reason why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure neuralgia. They are the only medicine that contains in correct proportion the elements needed to make rich, red blood. This new rich blood soothes the jagged nerves, drives away the nagging, starving pain, and braces up your health in other ways as well. In proof of these statements Mrs. A. T. Oulton, Little Simsbury, N.H., says: "A few years ago my mother was an intense sufferer from neuralgia, which was located in her face, head and shoulders. She was especially in her head, was intense. She doctored for some time without getting relief and there seemed to be no ceasing of the pain whatever. Instead it seemed to be extending and her whole nervous system became affected. Finally she decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After taking them for a while the pain in her head became less severe, and of course this was a great relief to her. Under the continued use of the Pills she felt herself growing better and stronger each day until she was no longer a sufferer and was completely cured, and has felt no symptoms of the trouble since."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any medicine dealer, or by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Sugar Production in Canada

At a meeting of the Society of Chemical-Industry held in Toronto recently, Dr. F. J. Taylor, chief chemist of the Dominion Sugar Company, told of the various processes in use here sugar industry from its origin in 1847, when the beet contained only 2 to 4 per cent. sugar, up to the present content of 15 to 20 per cent. He showed that the yield of wheat and oats was increased 35 to 50 per cent. when planted in rotation with sugarbeets and presented that, with government assistance, as in Europe, the industry would develop so that all the sugar used in Canada might be made here, the present colonies supplying only one-tenth of the consumption.

Nervine Ends Neuralgia, Brings Relief Instantly

No Remedy Like Old "Nervine" to Cure Pain or Soreness

That terrible ache—how you fear it, with its dull stabbing, burning quality—what misery it causes. Never mind, you don't have to suffer—use Nervine, it's a sure cure. Not an experiment, because nearly forty years of wonderful success has made a name for Nervine among the people of many different nations. There is nothing speedier to end Neuralgic headaches than old-time "Nervine," writes Mr. G. C. Dalglish, from Evanston, Ill. It is so powerful and penetrating that it seems to eat up any pains you keep the old family size bottle handy on the shelf, and use it to end chest colds, sore throats, earache, toothache and pain in the back. My wife suffers from Nervine. For cramps its effect is astounding and we believe it is better and speedier than any other household family remedy.

It was little Edith's first term at school and his mother had been telling the right kind of story. Well the little boy was getting along with his studies and how dearly he loved his school.

"I wait till it's time to go home," was Teddy's matter-of-fact reply.

Masonville, June 27, 13. Minard's Liniment Co., Limited, Yarmouth, N.S.

Gentlemen—it affords me great pleasure and must be gratifying to you to know that after using 36 bottles of your Liniment on a case of paralysis which my father was afflicted with, I was able to restore him to normal condition. Hoping other sufferers may be benefited by the use of your Liniment, I am, Sincerely yours,

Mrs. Pessimist—That's the worst of it. They mess up all their successes.

The indications of worms are restlessness, grinding of the teeth, picking of the nose, extreme peevishness, often convulsions. After these conditions the best remedy that can be got is Miller's Worm Powders. They will attack the worms as soon as administered and will bring them to stool that pass away in the evacuation. The little wormer will be immediately eased and a return of the attack will not be likely.

OPERATIONS for APPENDICITIS

And How They

Can be Avoided

Dr. David H. Reeder writes as follows of appendicitis:—"In considering the treatment of any condition of sickness it is always been my rule to first find the cause. To my mind, it's the only logical way. Many people seem to think that if they have had an operation for appendicitis they are forever immune, and need have no further fear along that line, but I say emphatically, and I think you will agree I am right, that after an attack of appendicitis, even though you have been successfully operated upon and the appendix removed, your troubles have only just begun unless you remove the cause. What was the cause of the appendicitis?"

No, inflammation of the appendix is appendicitis, but what caused the inflammation? Constipation, yes, that is the prime cause. If you were never constipated you would never have an attack of appendicitis. Appendicitis is only one of the results of the retention of fecal matter in the colon for too long a period."

There is no longer any question that the real cause of appendicitis is constipation. By keeping the bowels regular you not only prevent appendicitis, but also a host of other ills, some of which are even more dangerous than appendicitis. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are recommended to you in this connection, not as a mere relief by effecting the movement of the bowels, but rather as a positive cure for constipation. As is well known, the bile secreted by the hepatic action of the liver is Nature's cathartic. So long as the bile flows freely into the intestines there is no constipation of the bowels and no clogging of the excretory organs. Hence the wisdom of using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to ensure regular working of the liver, kidneys and bowels. You thereby save yourself much inconvenience from the minor ills of life, and ensure against such fatal diseases as appendicitis and peritonitis.

Avoid the Soup Line

Germany can deliver in Chicago, duty paid, for 40 cents an article costing 80 to 90 cents in a Cincinnati factory; a German woman can do for 75 cents the same work for which an American man is paid $3.50; yet free trade invites them to rush in their cheap foreign labor products and let the American workman take his place in the soup line. Is it fair?

Money Stays at Home

A protective tariff keeps our own people employed, and the money remains in circulation at home, where we have another chance to handle it. Under free trade it goes into foreign producers' pockets, and both the labor and the money are out of reach.

"LADY URSULA'S HUSBAND"

A BRIGHT TOBACCO OF THE FINEST QUALITY

10 CENTS PER PLUG

LADY URSULA'S HUSBAND

BY FLORENCE WARDEN

Ward, Lock & Co., Limited
TORONTO

CHAPTER I.

"Certainly not," Lord Gravenhurst uttered these words in so decisive a tone, frowning the while with so much intensity, that nobody but Lady Gravenhurst, his gentle, meek-eyed, yet most dignified wife, would for a moment have thought it possible that he would reconsider a decision announced with so much promptitude and with so much force.

But Lady Gravenhurst, sweet and submissive as she looked, was a past mistress in the art of governing a self-willed and dictatorial husband, and so she kept her eyes upon her knitting and went on murmuring softly, "One-two-three—four!" just as if her lord and master had not, a moment previously, forbidden her to allow her two little nieces to pay a visit with their brother to the house of the parents of one of that young man's fellow-university.

They were sitting in the drawing-room together after dinner, and to their ears came faintly the sound of the click of the billiard balls, and the voices of their two youngest children, Thomas, Viscount Eastling, due for the vacation in his third year at Oxford, and his sister, Lady Emmeline, a healthy, active young girl of twenty-one, who hated the quiet country house where she was forced to spend her days in quite unbecoming pursuits.

Presently the Earl coughed, and after turning rather restlessly over the sheets of the Field which he was reading, laid down the paper with a snap, and asked discontentedly:

"These Jacksons, what are they?" Lady Gravenhurst affected for a moment to have forgotten what they had been talking about. Then, with a little "Oh," she recovered the thread—which she had not lost, and answered with elaborate indifference:

"Oh, they call themselves 'Oare-Jackson,' and I think the man made his money in America."

The Earl answered with some severity:

"And do you think people of whom one knows no more than that are proper companions for my daughters?"

Lady Gravenhurst affected to seem a little shocked. Then she ventured calmly:

"I suppose they would not always have been thought visible persons. But nowadays one visits everybody. Doesn't one?"

"I don't," said the Earl.

"No, but the girls at least Emmeline—complain that life here is dull. And of course it is very quiet."

After a silence the Earl said, "Eastling can go, if he likes."

"Oh, of course he is going."

"As for the girls, I suppose Ursula has no wish to spend a week with these—these?" The Earl looked about for a word which should be contemptuous enough without being too strong for a lady's ears—"these parvenues."

Then Lady Gravenhurst looked up. "Don't you think, John, that it would be good for Ursula to see some people outside her own small circle? She's twenty-five, and what with her parish work, her district visiting and nursing the sick poor, she is getting really quite too—too!" She broke off and ended desperately. "Well, she's getting really more like a nun than anything."

"A nun!" echoed the Earl, surprised and rather alarmed.

His wife looked up.

"She will end by joining a sisterhood or something of that sort, if we don't take care," she said, with decision.

Lord Gravenhurst looked disturbed. He was entirely spoilt and selfish, though always courteous and kind; and as long as he could have the bright and comely faces of his daughters about him he troubled himself not at all about their future.

Lady Gravenhurst, on the other hand, though she was no husband-hunter, looked forward with longing to the time when she should have grandchildren about her knee, and felt that, if the girls were to marry, it was time to bestir herself on their behalf. Indeed, it was getting plain that, if she did not, her youngest daughter would be cutting herself adrift from the no quite home, and insisting upon going up to town to throw herself into the numerous petty activities of London life, while Ursula would conceivably become an Anglican nun.

There was a long silence, and before it was broken there glided into the room, between the heavy brocade curtains which separated it from the white saloon, a figure, so shoitlike, so startlingly aloof from her environment that the Earl looked almost shyly across the intervening space, and recognized that his wife had told the truth.

For this was their elder daughter, Lady Ursula, and for the first time he awoke to the fact that she seemed to be growing up into her surroundings.

But the Countess had noted the fact long ago.

Serene, placid, her fair skinned face and severely plain coiffure surmounting a tall and slender figure, in a grey dress of studiously simple cut, high to the throat but for a square space filled in with plain folds of white net, Lady Ursula, sweet and gentle, and saintlike in expression, had something mediæval in the absorbed outlook of her countenance.

The Earl, who noticed nothing that was not pointed out to him by his wife, grew at once alive to the fact that this graceful girl of five-and-twenty was a grown woman, not only in her own thought, but in her own life.

He perceived suddenly that the dress she wore was not the sort of dress which became a woman of rank to wear, that this studiously prim gown, this plainly parted hair, were in some sort an offence to him.

A few words addressed to her, about some trifles, showed Lady Ursula that her father was displeased, and she withdrew, thinking she had perhaps interrupted a confidential talk, and left the Earl and Countess alone together again.

A faint smile hovered over Lady Gravenhurst's mouth as she answered:

"I can't do that now. Ursula has a will of her own."

He was amazed. That his daughters should thus grow into people with will of their own, tastes of their own, views of their own, without asking his permission or even, he seemed, allowing him to become, by their advantage, and hastened to use it.

"They have lived so much out of the fire—for it was early October, and chilly; then allowed his gaze to travel the length of the long room, and he said slowly, 'It would be as well to take advantage of this opportunity to let the girls have a change. It will enable them to appreciate better the atmosphere of their own home.'"

"But Emmeline, surely she doesn't want to be a nun!" protested the Earl, disturbed.

"Oh, no! But she will develop some other eccentricity if we keep her shut up too long," said she, placidly, picking her knitting needles as she spoke, and not looking up.

The Earl was shocked. He hated Society, and it had seemed to him perfectly natural that his children should adapt themselves to his own tastes. And now he had found out that that scarcely conceivable thing, he had made a mistake.

He rose from his chair, looked at the fire—for it was early October, and chilly; then allowed his gaze to travel the length of the long room, and he said slowly, 'It would be as well to take advantage of this opportunity to let the girls have a change. It will enable them to appreciate better the atmosphere of their own home.'"

"This was all that Lady Gravenhurst desired, but she was careful to show no elation."

"I suppose," went on the Earl gloomily, "they will meet nobody of any standing, nobody of whom one has ever heard, among these—these Jacksons?"

"One of the daughters married a son of Lord Finchden," said she. "And another Sir Joseph Barkway."

"Ah! Money of course."

"Yes, I suppose so."

The Earl was silent for a long time, but when at last he spoke, it was to give an ungracious but definite permission for his daughters to go to Oare Court with their brother; and the Countess took no time in making his decision known to her daughters.

By the younger, Emmeline, who was the constant companion, and "pal" of her brother, Viscount Eastling, the news was received with delight. But upon the elder daughter, Lady Ursula, the news fell like a blow. She loved her home, loved her poor neighbors, who treated her as a saint and a queen. And it required a certain amount of gentle insistence on the part of her mother, who laid the matter before her as a duty, to prevail upon her to join the rather "worldly" house party in the distant Midlands, with her brother and sister.

Britain's Supremacy

Britain is Supreme in Air and on the Sea

Discussing the new German Fokker, Alan K. Hawley, president of the Aero Club of New York, said:

"This new German monoplane will undoubtedly bring out the speedy French and British biplanes, which I understand, have not been used, because of the difficulty of having enough landing grounds for them at the theatre of war."

Henry Woodhouse, a governor of the Aero Club, said he had read about the "Fokker" class planes of the Germans, and was surprised that they had not appeared in the news despatches before.

"Both the British and French have machines that can make the same speed or more than 160 miles an hour, but they have not used them extensively because the Germans were not using them, and they are difficult to handle and trained pilots are scarce. This new development of the Germans does not mean that they will be supreme in the air, except in Russia territory, where they have thousands of aviators to the hundreds of Russians. It takes several thousand aeroplanes and trained aviators to give supremacy."

"As a matter of fact, the British navy has been supreme in the air as well as on the water during the whole war. This is largely due to the large number of 'America' and 'super-America' flying boats, made in this country, which are equipped with two big horsepower motors. More than 100 of these great machines and about 500 of the smaller types have been delivered to Great Britain during the last year."

"One American firm last year ordered for 1,100 more, including some huge flying boats, which are veritable battle cruisers. Several other firms are constructing large land and water aeroplanes with two and more engines."

"Riches have wings, they say." "Yes, and whenever I go after them they migrate."

Danish Small Holdings

An Example of What Can be Accomplished by Intensive Farming.

In Denmark 85,500 men and their families make a comfortable living on a farm about five or six acres. Out of 150,000 separate holdings 133,000 do not exceed eleven acres. More than one-third of the people in rural districts get their living on farms of eleven acres or less, one-fifth of them on farms of five or six acres.

This is made possible by education and co-operation. Sixteen per cent of the men and women engaged in agriculture in Denmark, between 20 and 50 years of age, have passed through high school. There are 1,100 Danish co-operative dairy companies with 160,000 members. There are 40 co-operative bacon factories with 100,000 members, and in 1907 there were 1,200,000 pigs slaughtered in these factories. There are eight egg exporting societies with 70,000 members and they export some 110,000,000 eggs a year.

Between 1880 and 1905 the population of the country increased by about 20 per cent, but in the same time the exports of agricultural products more than doubled, amounting in the latter year to $100,000,000. In 25 years the area in permanent pasture in the United Kingdom increased by 20 per cent. In Denmark old pastures have been broken up, and about the only grass and is that which is too poor or wet to be cultivated.

Regulate Kidneys AND Relieve Constipation

Gin Pills are acknowledged to have the largest sale of any proprietary medicine in Canada—an achievement solely due to their remarkable virtue as a kidney and bladder remedy.

Not users of Gin Pills have discovered that this invaluable remedy acts as a mild cathartic. The evidence of hundreds of letters we have received establishes the very logical fact that in compensating a stimulating food and tone up the kidneys and bladder thereby the ingredients have a stimulating effect upon the other organs, especially the bowels.

It is important to know, in the case of constipated patients, that Gin Pills do not act as a cathartic. The evidence of hundreds of letters we have received establishes the very logical fact that in compensating a stimulating food and tone up the kidneys and bladder thereby the ingredients have a stimulating effect upon the other organs, especially the bowels.

Gin Pills are 50c, a box, or 6 boxes for $3.00 at your dealer's. A trial treatment will be sent upon request.

GROWING CROPS ON STUBBLE LAND IN 1916

*The Empire's Demands for food are greater this year than last.
Less summer-fallow and less fall ploughing than usual in 1915 make it necessary that the farmers of the Prairie provinces in 1916 shall sow extensively on stubble land*

MR. J. H. GRISDALE, Director, and the Superintendents of the Dominion
Experimental Farms, urge the following upon the Farmers:

STUBBLE LAND OF FIRST CROP AFTER FALLOW

Burn stubble thoroughly as soon as surface is dry. Fire about noon time when steady wind is blowing. Cultivate at once about two inches deep, then sow the wheat and harrow immediately afterwards. If possible, where area is large, harrow first, then cultivate, seed, and harrow again. In Eastern Saskatchewan sow 1½ bush. per acre; in Western Saskatchewan 1¼ bush. On light soils and dry lands sow ¾ bush. less.

STUBBLE LAND OF SECOND CROP AFTER FALLOW

Usually this land should be summer-fallowed, but this year much of it must be in crop. Burn stubble if possible. This may be helped by scattering straw freely over the field. Wrap old sacking about the end of a 4-foot stick. Dip in gasoline. Set on fire and shake on straw and stubble. Carry gasoline in open pail. If stubble is too light to burn then cultivate, harrow and seed a little lighter than above. Oats and barley will do better than wheat. If shoe drills are used plough instead of cultivating. Plough, pack or roll, and then harrow, if land is grassy or weedy. In the drier sections at least one-third of all cropping land should be summer-fallowed every year.

STUBBLE LAND OF THIRD CROP AFTER FALLOW

Do not sow to grain, but summer-fallow. Better use your spring labour on other stubble land and thus make sure of crops in 1916 and 1917. Put your labour on land that is likely to give best returns.

SEED

Sow only clean, plump seed of tested variety. Use the fanning mill thoroughly and test seed for smut. Have horses, harness and machines in good shape before starting work.

CROSSFIELD, ALTA., APRIL 7, 1916.

Correspondence.

April 3rd, 1916.
To the Editor.

Dear Sir:—May I be allowed to trespass on your space to bring to the attention of the public generally and to the Village Council in particular, a matter that I feel has only to be mentioned to be endorsed by all who have the welfare and improvement of Crossfield at heart. As is generally known, quite recently an energetic and much to be commended organization has formed what has long been needed in the community; viz., a Brass Band, which I am informed is making giant strides towards efficiency, and which promises in the near future to be both the joy and the pride of us all.

Now, sir, the foregoing is in parenthesis to the "matter" that I would take this liberty of suggesting. Which is that a band needs a Bandstand from which to discourse "sweet music" on highdays and holidays, or on other occasions, such as the lovely summer evenings; and I believe I am correct in stating that this can be obtained free of all initial cost if the Village Council petitions the Railway Company: For as many may remember the Railway Company some few years ago offered to lay out the ground between the railway track and the main street south of the station, as a small pleasure garden, and also to erect a bandstand, if the village would take care of it when done; unfortunately, at that time I believe, circumstances prevented the acceptance of the offer, but since then the village has grown, so that surely the small cost of upkeep should not be much of a burden.

We have heard (but not of late) of the Crossfield Board of Trade, and also I seem to recollect hearing of a Publicity Commission, but it would seem to me that well laid out grounds in place of the abomination of desolation that meets the eye of anyone arriving at Crossfield would be as good an advertisement of the prosperity, happiness and up to dateness of the village and district as could be obtained in any other way.

Trusting that this matter may be carefully considered in the right quarter, and feeling sure that it will meet with general approval. I have the honor to be,
Yours faithfully,

H. E. G. H. SOBOLIEFF.

The Testing of Dairy Products

The price of success is attention to detail. This fact is distinctly emphasized in a bulletin recently issued by the Dairy and Cold Storage Branch of the Federal Department of Agriculture under the title of "The Testing of Milk, Cream and Dairy By-Products by Means of Babcock Test" and written by J. F. Singleton, Chief Inspector of Dairy Products. Without being profuse Mr. Singleton tells in plain language about all that is to be told of the practical application of the test, the care that should be taken of the component parts of the apparatus, the measurements advisable and the methods that should be employed. The qualities naturally most emphasized are exactness, cleanliness and temperature. The Dairy Commissioner in his introductory says there is nothing fundamentally new in the bulletin but that the contents are presented with such a clearness of diction and the processes so aptly set forth that the result is a reliable handbook for those who value information on the testing of milk, cream and so on. A number of exact and plain illustrations lend additional words to a notable bulletin, the number of which is 45 of the Dairy and Cold Storage Series and that can be had by post-free application to the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Mr. D. Evans, of Millerville, Alta., brother-in-law of Mr. E. Edwards, spent the week end at Crossfield, and left on Monday afternoon for Rochester, Minn., to undergo an operation. Mrs. Edwards accompanied him.

The I.O.O.F. Anniversary will take place on Sunday, April 30th. All the brethren are invited to attend the service at the Union Church on the afternoon of that day. A local band in attendance.
